aved themselves by jumping on board the Meteor, but did all they could after the un-fortunate occurrence. Mr. Cleveland, the first mate, had nearly succeeded in cutting loose the life boat when he was obliged to look out for himself. Mr. Mack, the clerk of the Pewabic, got the first boat out from the Meteor and with Mr. Cleveland was

At this stage of his adventures he descried what seemed to be a hand, which was clasping a frail and uncertain support, in the shape of a piece of timber, and at the same moment he heard a female voice crying out, imploringly: "Is there no one to save me?" possession of a large stick, and in order the

A promise to be more regular hereafter will. we hope, be a sufficient apology to your readers. COURT WEEK .- A large number of persons are in town this week attending the Court of Quarter Sessions, and more business is being transacted than at a y term for a long time. Judge Derickson presides, and is dispatching business with his customary promptness. In his opening charge to the Frand Jury, the Judge was particularly sorere on drinking establishments, of which there are about forty in Meadville alone, selling liquor without license. All of these cases have been returned, and the parties will be fined according to the nature of their

According to the laws c' Pennsylvania the fines imposed in cases of this characters are to be paid into the school funds of the various districts where the convicted parties reside. Now these fines amount in the aggregate to hundreds of dollars, and the question is being agitated, what becomes of this money? As many of the sections sesert it is not paid into this fund at all, would it not be well for the authorities to investigate this matter ?

A true bill has been found against the nan Flaugh, for a rape committed on the person of a child only twelve years old, a short distance below town, some weeks ago. He professes to be able to prove an alibi. If ound guilty, the most extreme penalty the law will allow should be passed upon him.

THE NEW COURT HOUSE,-One of the late numbers of the Journal contained a very able communication in reference to the Court house, a plan being about to be adopted by the Commissioners to raise and refit the old one instead of building entirely anew. This correspondent took the ground that it was cheaper to build new from the foundation, and we are pleased to learn that Judge Derickson took this view of the matter in his charge to the Grand Jury. From this and what we can learn in regard to the opinions of the people, we think the project of re-fitting the old hulk, now used for a court house, is about squelched.

ALLEGUENT COLLEGE, -Appearances indiate that the attendance at this institution, which opens on the 20th of September, a month later than usual, will be nearly double what it was the corresponding time last year. This college is rapidly taking its proper place among the first institutions of learing in the country.

A NUISANCE.-Passers-by and families residing in the neighborhood, complain of the horrible smells issuing from a mest market at the east end of Chesnut street bridge, owned, we believe, by Walster & Pearson. We had, at one time, a sort of a police force, the members of which could be found in some under-ground saloon at any time playing euchre for the drinks, and who were afraid to arrest any of these roughs, as they were all "personal friends " and it might cause hard feelings. Unchecked now for over two years, by any restraints whatever, these vagabonds have increased like the frogs in Egypt, and their drunken howlings make night hideous Restoration 200 088 45,352 25,085 214,211 from sunset to sunrise.
